user experience and financial management capabilities. Additionally, Bitstamp users will benefit from exclusive discounts on Kryptos's services, including premium features and analytics tools, further enriching their investment and trading strategies.

A key aspect of this partnership is the enhanced ability for users to maintain compliance with their crypto tax obligations amidst growing regulatory scrutiny. The integration provides users with the necessary tools to seamlessly generate accurate tax reports and maintain compliance with local regulations. Users can also perform comprehensive portfolio analysis, real-time tracking, and receive personalised financial insights, making it easier to navigate the complexities of cryptocurrency investment and management.

"This partnership with Bitstamp marks a significant milestone for Kryptos as we continue to expand our ecosystem and integrate with leading platforms in the crypto space," said Mr. Sukesh Tedla, CEO of Kryptos. "By combining Bitstamp's robust trading infrastructure with our advanced Web3 financial tools, we are setting a new standard for accessibility and compliance in the digital asset industry."

JB Graftieaux, CEO of Bitstamp, added, "We're delighted to work together with Kryptos in a partnership which will grant our customers access to an even greater array of sophisticated financial and analytics tools. The combination of Kryptos' platform and our security and reliability will be a great benefit to our users, offering them a seamless way to manage their assets and meet their compliance requirements more efficiently."
