Butera 28 Apartments*

Butera 28 Apartments are uniquely positioned in the historic center of Palermo, within the 18th-century Palazzo Lanza Tomasi, the last residence of famed author Giuseppe Tomasi di Lampedusa. These apartments offer more than just accommodation; they offer a historical experience, merging comfort with the rich tapestry of Sicilian literature and culture.

Ideal Climate for Productive Retreats

With temperatures ranging from a comfortable 12-20 degrees Celsius during the winter months, Butera 28 Apartments stands out as an idyllic location for digital nomads looking to escape harsher winters. The apartments are fully equipped with high-speed internet, central heating, air conditioning, and modern kitchens, ensuring a seamless transition for those looking to work remotely in a picturesque setting.

Seamless Living with Modern Amenities and Local Culture
Residents at Butera 28 Apartments can enjoy spacious apartments furnished with antiques, modern appliances, and some with exclusive terraces offering stunning views of the sea or the historic cityscape. The strategic location allows easy access to local markets, exquisite dining options, and cultural sites, ensuring a comfortable and enriching stay.

Empowered by Italy's New Digital Nomad Visa
The introduction of Italy's digital nomad visa has opened new opportunities for non-EU remote workers. Visa applications are relatively straightforward and advice can be found online for this, in order to leverage the new law that facilitates legal long-term stays in Italy for highly skilled remote workers. Applicants can now easily enjoy the benefits of living and working in one of the most inspiring locations in Europe.
