

New Beginnings High School: A Solution for Florida Dropouts

New Beginnings High School helps students who dropped out of school get back on track.

LAKELAND, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES, August 12, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- In the 2022-23 school year, Florida set a new state record with a high school graduation rate of 88%. At the same time, the state's dropout rate also declined, hitting 2.8% that school year, according to the state Department of Education.

While this is certainly great news — and was widely celebrated — the fact remains that there are still many students who are being left behind. School districts in Florida are allowed to establish academic intervention and dropout prevention programs, but not all do. Without programs such as New Beginnings High School, many at-risk students are simply forgotten about rather than supported.

Dropout retrieval programs are designed to serve students who have officially been designated as school dropouts. They continue to serve students who are no longer in the traditional school system but desperately need support, guidance, and education to help them succeed.

Many students in Florida are experiencing significant challenges in life that prevent them from succeeding in a traditional classroom setting. According to NBHS, these could include being homeless, lacking food or sufficient nutrition, not having parental support, or having to work multiple jobs just to support the family.

For many of these students, a traditional classroom setting simply isn't a good fit. New Beginnings High School is a wonderful solution for students looking for a new beginning.

Students between the ages of 15 and 24 are eligible to attend New Beginnings High School, which offers a curriculum for grades 6 through 12.
