Rising Healthcare Expenditure Fuels Market Expansion
The expansion of the post-acute care market is significantly influenced by the rising healthcare expenditure. Healthcare expenditure encompasses all costs related to healthcare services, which are crucial for supporting the development and accessibility of post-acute care services. According to the Canadian Institute for Health Information, healthcare spending increased to $331 billion in 2022, marking a 0.8% rise from the previous year. This growth in expenditure is anticipated to drive the post-acute care market forward.
