Helicopter Tour Over Glacier National Park

While the Crown of the Continent is only 32 miles from downtown Kalispell and is accessible by car, a jaw-dropping way to see the park is on a guided helicopter tour with Red Eagle Aviation. Offering a bird’s-eye view of Glacier National Park, these helicopter tours take passengers over glaciers, glacial-carved lakes and high alpine valleys.

See How Kalispell’s Most Prestigious Family Lived in the 1890s

Built in 1895, the Conrad Mansion was originally home to Charles E. Conrad, his wife Alicia and their children. Today, the museum preserves an important part of Kalispell’s history, with 90% of the furnishings in the home being original. Docent-led tours take visitors through the museum, where they learn the stories of the Conrads, as well as how Charles and Alicia were trailblazers in Kalispell and Montana.

Relax at a Day Spa

Vacations are made for pampering and northwest Montana has a variety of day spas that provide guests with an opportunity to relax. Enjoy a seasonal body treatment and massage at The Spa at Whitefish Lake or get pampered with a pedicure – and cocktail – at the Ritzy Salon in downtown Kalispell.

Learn to Shake and Make Huckleberry Cocktails

Headquartered in Coram, Glacier Distilling Company makes some of Montana's tastiest spirits, often infusing local ingredients – like huckleberries and cherries – into their recipes. Led by an experienced mixologist, classes are interactive, with the goal being for each student to learn how to make a specialty cocktail, leaving with a genuine taste of Montana.

Book a Swim Session at Quinn's Hot Springs Resort

You don't have to be a guest at Quinn's to swim in its healing waters. A scenic 90-minute drive from Kalispell, it's easy to make use of the property's four-hour swim sessions. The property has seven on-site pools, including a cold plunge and two salt-treated pools.

Kayak, Sail and Fish Glacial-Fed Waters with a Guide

From Kalispell, there are numerous waterways that are ideal for recreation, including the Flathead River and Flathead Lake. Fed by glacial runoff and snowmelt, casting a fishing line with a hands-on guide is a great way to experience Montana's outdoors and one of the state's favorite pastimes. True Water Fly Shop – located in downtown Kalispell – has half-day and full-day guided fly-fishing trips. Additional on-the-water luxury activities include booking a sailing charter on Flathead Lake or a guided kayaking tour to Wild Horse Island with Sea Me Paddle.
