Increasing Preterm Birth Rates Drive Market Expansion The pediatric home healthcare market is expected to experience significant growth, reaching $69.87 billion by 2028 with a CAGR of 10.2%. This growth is largely due to a focus on employee retention, the adoption of remote onboarding solutions, video interviewing technologies, mobile recruiting, expansion of the gig economy, and cybersecurity concerns. The rise in preterm births is a key factor driving this market. Pediatric home healthcare plays a crucial role in providing specialized medical care and monitoring for preterm infants in the comfort of their homes. For example, a report by March of Dimes highlighted a 10.5% increase in the U.S. preterm birth rate in 2021, emphasizing the growing need for such healthcare services.
