Leave Her Mark is devoted to empowering professionals in the creative and entertainment industries through a comprehensive array of programs designed to foster networking, education and community support. The organization's events bring together entrepreneurs from all corners of the industry, creating spaces for meaningful connections, collaborations and mentorship opportunities.

“I am incredibly excited for Leave Her Mark to come to fruition with Pow(Her) Hour so founders and creative professionals can collaborate with other like-minded individuals,” said Nirjary Desai, KIS (cubed) Events Founder. “Leave Her Mark will be a space where multicultural businesswomen can collaborate, learn and educate one another.”

The goal for Leave Her Mark is to provide a robust platform where women can connect, learn and grow by breaking barriers and achieving their professional goals. From industry mixers and panel discussions to workshops, seminars, diversity and inclusion advocacy and industry resources and templates, Leave Her Mark provides a platform for women looking to sharpen their skills, explore new career paths or stay ahead of industry trends.

Desai is regarded as one of the top Southeast Asian event producers, specializing in one-of-a-kind event experiences with serious wow factor for some of the top brands, celebrities and personalities across the U.S. and globally. A fierce champion for women and humans of color, she devotes much of her free time to community building, mentorship and most of all her family.
