Jayme Ambrose

“We are so honored to be on the Inc. 5000 Fastest-Growing Private Companies list for the second year in a row,” said Jayme Ambrose, DNP, RN, CCM, chief executive officer at Adobe. “Our increase in ranking this year is a direct reflection of the growth our team has seen not only financially but also in expanding our geographical footprint in the U.S.”

Adobe provides interventional care management services across multiple states through a hybrid care model delivering whole-person care. By combining proprietary risk stratification and health risk assessment with virtual and in-home care delivery, Adobe gathers a complete picture of at-risk members, coordinating seamlessly with primary care while addressing social determinants, improving outcomes and lowering costs. Applying the human touch, Adobe develops real relationships forging a pathway forward and improving both the human and health condition of each member. Since opening in 2017, Adobe Population Health has grown from 12 employees and one office to approximately 300 employees in seven offices across the Southwest. The company provides healthcare solution services to more than 400,000 lives.

The Inc. 5000 class of 2024 represents companies that have driven rapid revenue growth while navigating inflationary pressure, the rising costs of capital, and seemingly intractable hiring challenges. Among this year's top 500 companies, the average median three-year revenue growth rate is 1,637 percent. In all, this year's Inc. 5000 companies have added 874,458 jobs to the economy over the past three years.

"One of the greatest joys of my job is going through the Inc. 5000 list," says Mike Hofman, who recently joined Inc. as editor-in-chief. "Congratulations to this year's honorees, as well, for growing their businesses fast despite the economic disruption we all faced over the past three years, from supply chain woes to inflation to changes in the workforce."

"As we strive to fulfill our mission to positively impact the lives we touch," said Ambrose, "we look forward to serving more lives in the community and growing our footprint."
