integrations developer, MyWorks, brings more functionality to Shopify with the launch of its new QuickBooks Desktop sync. Now users can manage ecommerce accounting tasks from within their site dashboard, making store management more efficient. The powerful two-way sync automatically pushes data from Shopify to QuickBooks and vice versa.

The new release marks a significant breakthrough for ecommerce stores. While QuickBooks Desktop syncs have been available for some time, none have offered such a robust solution. MyWorks is the only QuickBooks Desktop integration native to the Shopify ecosystem. The deep connection with the ecommerce platform means higher customization capabilities compared to other solutions.

Alternative tools have proven unreliable, with users complaining about glitches. Buggy integrations frequently lead to discrepancies between Shopify and Quickbooks and support isn't always on hand to resolve the issue. Running an ecommerce store then becomes more challenging instead of easier — teams must be constantly on the lookout for potential issues with orders, tax payments, and stock levels.

MyWorks is no stranger to online store owners' needs. The team already has more than 10 years of experience in ecommerce accounting, having launched their first award-winning WooCommerce sync back in 2016. Seeing the need for more reliable solutions elsewhere, they released their Shopify QuickBooks integration. This new sync has already become one of the most highly-rated apps on Shopify in just six months.

The advertisement features a woman with short brown hair, wearing a red sweater, giving a thumbs up and holding a silver laptop. Above her, the MyWorks logo is displayed at the top. Below the logo, two rounded rectangular boxes represent the integrated services: 'shopify' on the left and 'INTUIT quickbooks Desktop' on the right. A yellow double-headed arrow connects the two boxes, indicating bidirectional sync. Below each box are five-star ratings: '★★★★★ shopify app store' and '★★★★★ INTUIT quickbooks'. At the bottom of the ad, the text reads: 'Effortlessly sync Shopify and QuickBooks Desktop both ways with MyWorks'.

Now MyWorks has thousands of loyal customers worldwide and syncs 9 million orders every month. Despite the high volume of data transfers, they continue to provide a reliable service. Users consistently give MyWorks a 5-star review across all the major rating platforms.

CEO and founder, Peter Leonard says they owe their success to their focus on ecommerce businesses. "At MyWorks, we put our customers first in everything we do. Listening to their feedback has shaped how we build our products and we've been incorporating that into our new QuickBooks Desktop and Shopify sync. We aim to empower Shopify store owners with a reliable and flexible accounting integration, backed by the excellent support and stability we're known for."

The QuickBooks Desktop sync is available now on the Shopify app marketplace and the MyWorks website. There's a choice of four plans with the option for a 14-day free trial.
