Pickle’s owner Peter Thanasoulis had this to say “I got a call about 8am this morning regarding Pickle’s whereabouts in Malba Bay. We drove there, and someone said he was hiding in the bushes. I greatly appreciate that person who shared their location with me, so we knew exactly where he was. I went left, the other group went right all of a sudden, I hear my dog’s name, I looked and there he is. He was glad jumping up and happy we were reunited, and I am glad to say he is healthy and home safe. I would like to give a shout out to everyone, the Whitestone community the community that helped me out. Pretty much it was a group effort. Definitely the people at Doggy Be Good Daycare they did their part to make it right, they were nonstop searching, they handed out flyers Thank you everyone, I am happy to report Pickle is home safe.”
