The first of Joe's contributions is a striking 4'x4' painting that prominently features the governor's seal. This piece captures the essence of the governor's office with a bold and colorful interpretation, demonstrating Joe's exceptional skill in blending vivid hues to create a commanding presence.

The second painting, a larger 4'x5' acrylic on canvas, celebrates New Orleans' rich jazz heritage. This artwork features a dynamic New Orleans jazz trio, with a particular homage to the legendary trombone player Maynard Timothy Chatters. Joe's signature technique—characterized by energetic slinging and splattering of paint—infuses the piece with a captivating texture and movement that brings the vibrant world of jazz to life.

Governor Jeff Landry expressed his appreciation for Joe Mustachia's work, stating, “These paintings perfectly capture the spirit and beauty of our state. These works will be cherished reminders of the vibrant culture we are proud to share.”

Joe's innovative approach often involves dripping and splattering paint from high above the canvas, creating a unique visual experience that draws viewers in. His mastery of color and form is on full display in these pieces, which are set to become a defining feature of Governor Landry's suite.

"I am deeply honored to contribute to such an iconic location as the Superdome," said Joe. "To have my work displayed in a space so closely associated with Louisiana's cultural and political landscape is a true privilege. I hope these paintings add to the vibrant and lively atmosphere of the suite."

The paintings will be on permanent display in Governor Landry's suite for the duration of his time in office, symbolizing the fusion of art and leadership in Louisiana's most famous sports venue.
