Water Lilies," symbolizes strength and resilience, much like the flower that grows from muddy waters to bloom on the surface.”

a passion that has only grown stronger over the years.

Now based in London, Sennie is further honing her craft while studying music at ICMP University in London.

Sennie's music reflects her broad influences and personal approach to songwriting and production. Her new single, "Water Lilies," symbolizes strength and resilience, much like the flower that grows from muddy waters to bloom on the surface. The song combines delicate melodies with lyrics that capture this balance of grace and strength.

The official music video for "Water Lilies" is a creative collaboration between London-based videographer Hanna Franson and hair and makeup artist Mariia Usanova. Known for her urban and experimental avant-garde style, Franson brings a unique visual edge to the project. The video artfully explores contrasting elements—light and darkness, urban environments versus nature—while reflecting the song's core theme of reconnecting with oneself, as expressed in the lyrics of "Water Lilies." Franson's distinctive approach, combined with Usanova's styling, results in a visually compelling and emotionally resonant experience that captures the essence of the song.
