Growth Driver Of The Corneal Implants Market

The surge in the prevalence of corneal disorders is expected to propel the growth of the corneal implant market going forward. Corneal disorders refer to a group of medical conditions that affect the cornea, a clear, dome-shaped front surface of the eye, and result in visual impairment and discomfort. A growing number of corneal disorders has created a surge in demand for corneal implants, providing various alternatives to treat corneal abnormalities, enhancing corneal integrity, reducing symptoms, and improving vision.
