“Not providing fleet training is often seen as a cost-saving measure, but, in reality, the price of unsafe driving is immeasurable,” says Nigel Tunnacliffe, CEO and Co-Founder of Coastline Academy. “These all-too-common tragedies are entirely avoidable with the right expertise. We view these fleet training programs as an investment in both the economic success of a business and in public safety more generally.”

Coastline academy currently operates in 500+ cities across 8 states, having served more than 250,000 driving students and been rated 5 stars by 98% of reviewers. The company offers a variety of DMV-approved online and in-car lessons, utilizing online payment, secure booking, and digital lesson reports to help customers get the most out of each lesson. All instructors are highly qualified and have received independent background checks and drug tests.

Coastline's fleet training program draws on its acclaimed adult drivers ed program with a specific focus on rehabilitating unsafe drivers and helping less confident drivers build up the skills and knowledge to feel at ease behind the wheel. The program combines a one-on-one behind the wheel assessment to help identify problem areas, in-car training to address these issues while inculcating safe driving habits, and engaging self-paced online courses to help the lessons stick. The courses also enable drivers to more easily adapt to new types of vehicles, such as electric cars or cargo vans.

"Effective fleet training offers peace of mind for everyone involved, from company executives to the drivers themselves," says Matt Harvey, Co-Founder and CTO at Coastline Academy. "At Coastline, we leverage the latest technologies and approaches to make the learning process as efficient and effective as possible. By taking an individualized and personalized approach, we aim to address concrete problems to increase operational safety and efficiency."

By implementing proven driver education techniques, Coastline's fleet training improves workplace safety, helping improve employee satisfaction and keeping insurance premiums down. In today's economy, many business rely on fleets of driver/salesman hybrids, so having even a single car off the road can be extremely detrimental to productivity. The courses also help reduce the need for vehicle repairs, saving companies money while allowing them to get the most value out of each vehicle.
