LONDON, GREATER LONDON, UK,
August 28, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ --

The global autism spectrum disorder (ASD) diagnosis market has demonstrated significant growth, expanding from $25.54 billion in 2023 to $27.39 billion in 2024, marking a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 7.2%. This growth has been driven by increased awareness and recognition of ASD, expanded diagnostic criteria, advancements in diagnostic tools, improvements in healthcare systems, and effective public health campaigns. Looking ahead, the market is projected to continue its upward trajectory,

It will grow from $25.54 billion in 2023 to $27.39 billion in 2024 at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 7.2%. ”

The Business Research Company

reaching $36.35 billion by 2028, with a CAGR of 7.3%. The anticipated growth is supported by rising prevalence of ASD, growing awareness, early screening programs, and a focus on precision medicine and biomarkers.

Rising Awareness and Advancements Fuel Market Growth
The market's robust growth is largely attributed to the increasing prevalence of autism spectrum disorder and the expansion of awareness and early screening programs. Precision medicine and biomarkers are also playing a crucial role in this growth. Innovations in diagnostic technologies and the integration of artificial intelligence (AI) and machine learning are enhancing diagnostic accuracy and early detection, contributing significantly to market expansion. The rise in specialized diagnostic centers is further propelling market growth. These centers, staffed with healthcare professionals and specialists, are essential for comprehensive ASD evaluations, improving diagnostic accuracy, and facilitating early intervention.
