Construction Industry Growth Fuels Expansion of Saturating Kraft Paper Market

The construction industry's expansion is a significant driver of the saturating kraft paper market's growth. The construction sector, which includes residential, commercial, and civil engineering projects, is experiencing rapid growth due to urbanization, infrastructure development, and rising investments in residential and commercial projects. Saturated kraft paper is essential in the construction industry for packaging and protecting materials such as cement and plaster, thanks to its strength, tear resistance, and moisture resistance. For instance, the UK's construction sector saw a remarkable annual growth of 12.7% in 2021, highlighting the increasing demand for construction materials and, consequently, for saturating kraft paper.
