“From the very first time I came across Anna Segal's compositions, I found myself immersed in a mystic world,” said Gladisa Guadalupe, the choreographer for Whispers of the Forest. “I was drawn to her unique and enchanting melodies. This composition will be the canvas to my choreography, bringing to the stage a mystical, captivating and charming story that takes place in the wonders of the forest.”

Born in Ukraine and raised in Israel, Segal has studied with some of the world's most renowned composers. Her music has been performed by prestigious orchestras and ensembles worldwide, including the Berliner Symphoniker, London Mozart Players Orchestra, and the Jerusalem Symphony Orchestra.

Whispers of the Forest will mark Segal's return to Cleveland following the successful premiere of her previous composition, Symphony of Life.

"I believe it is exceptionally important today to focus on the upbringing and education of children. In a world full of challenges and crises, entire generations of children have been deprived of our adult attention and support due to global events. Children are our future and creating a repertoire for them is a vital task," said Anna Segal. "This tradition was initiated by Tchaikovsky and continued by Prokofiev and Khachaturian, but more needs to be done. That's why I approached choreographer and ballet theater director Gladisa Guadalupe with the idea of staging a children's ballet."
