

Virginia Senior Living Construction Company Scott-Long Selected to Upgrade Sunrise Senior Living Facilities

Scott-Long Construction is continuing a longstanding partnership with a senior living community in Northern Virginia with its latest project.

CHANTILLY, VA, USA, September 3, 2024

/EINPresswire.com/ -- The number of people living in the United States over the age of 65 is currently increasing and is expected to continue on that track through at least 2050. According to the Population Reference Bureau, between 2022 and 2050, the number of Americans over age 65 will go from 58 million to 82 million. An increase in senior citizens also translates to the need to have more housing options for that demographic.

Virginia senior living construction company, Scott-Long Construction, is working to address this change through one of its new construction projects. Their team is working on another project with Sunrise Senior Living. Earlier this year, they completed preliminary construction at the Sunrise at Countryside assisted living community in Potomac Falls, Va., with the next phase of renovations set to begin soon.

It's always challenging to do renovations in an occupied space, but our team has proven multiple times that we are able to do just that.”

The teams, including Sunrise, Scott-Long Construction and Moseley Architects are collaborating to provide an upgraded living experience for the residents of Sunrise at Countryside. The upgrades to the residential facilities are taking place while residents are still living there as part of a multi-phase project.

"It's always challenging to do renovations in an occupied space, but our team has proven multiple times that we are able to do just that," said Scott. "It's important to ensure that the senior residents living in these communities have access to the best possible living conditions."
