Foundation, in collaboration with the Norwegian Sarcoma Group, is proud to announce a two-day course dedicated to bone sarcoma pathology, scheduled for September 2-3 in Oslo, Norway. This specialized course aims to enhance the expertise of sarcoma pathologists across the Nordic countries by focusing on the challenging and intricate aspects of bone sarcoma diagnostics.

By fostering collaboration and sharing expertise, we aim to significantly improve osteosarcoma diagnosis and treatment across the globe.”

Bjarne Eggesbo

Bone sarcoma is a rare and often aggressive form of cancer that primarily affects adolescents and young adults. Given its rarity and complexity, accurate diagnosis is critical for optimal patient outcomes, yet it remains a significant challenge for medical professionals. To address this, the course will cover a comprehensive range of topics within bone pathology, including molecular pathology, radiology, and clinical considerations.

The event will feature presentations and workshops led by internationally renowned experts in the field of bone sarcoma from the United States, Great Britain, Switzerland, and Sweden. These distinguished speakers will share their extensive knowledge and insights, providing participants with the opportunity to engage in discussions about complex and difficult cases.

A total of 35 pathologists from Finland, Sweden, Denmark, and Norway will participate in the course, reflecting the collaborative spirit of this initiative. The course represents a significant step forward in the continuous effort to improve bone sarcoma diagnostics and treatment in the Nordic region.

"We are thrilled to bring together such a diverse group of experts and professionals for this important event," said Bjarne Eggesbo, Executive Director of the Bardo Foundation. "By sharing knowledge and experiences, we hope to advance the understanding and treatment of bone sarcoma, ultimately improving patient care across the globe."
