Growth Driver Of The Barley Flour Market
The increase in convenience foods is expected to propel the growth of the barley flour market going forward. Convenience foods are pre-packaged or pre-prepared foods designed for quick and easy consumption with minimal preparation time and are typically ready-to-eat or require simple steps such as heating or mixing, catering to busy lifestyles. The growing demand for convenience foods is due to busy lifestyles, a lack of time for cooking, and the desire for quick, easy meal solutions. Barley flour is increasingly used in convenience foods due to its health benefits and ability to enhance food structure, improve the nutritional profile, and shift consumption towards healthier, more nutritious foods with added health benefits.
