The inspiration for this dish comes from California's abundant seafood resources and local specialty fruits. By combining fresh swimming crabs with the sweetness of California oranges and baking them to allow the aroma of cheese to penetrate, Donghui Li successfully combines Chinese cooking techniques with Western ingredients to create a dish that has both visual impact and deep taste enjoyment.

The success of this dish not only proves Donghui Li's leading position in the field of Chinese-Western fusion culinary but also sets a new example for the exchange and innovation of global culinary art. Winning the championship of the Global Chinese-Western Fusion Culinary Competition has undoubtedly added a strong stroke to Donghui Li's career, and also opened up new perspectives and possibilities for the exchange of Chinese and Western food culture.
