bustling job opportunities and nearby activities, I am confident homebuyers will thrive in our communities,” said Brian Wasser, Vice President of City Operations. “We are excited to introduce D.R. Horton to the local market and deliver high-quality new homes to individuals and families across the greater Kansas City area.”

The first two communities recently opened for sales during the last couple of weeks. Windmill Creek is located in Platte City just off I-29 and Highway 92 and offers six floorplans with high-quality finishes and community amenities. Homes range from 1,635 to 2,356 square feet, feature up to four bedrooms and include two- or three-car garages.

Ella's Crossing is located in Liberty near Route 291 and Highway H and also offers six distinct floorplans ranging from 1,498 to 2,356 square feet. Each home has three to four spacious bedrooms and two- or three-car garages depending on the elevation.

Both communities offer ranch and two-story homes that incorporate modern features and include smart home technology as standard. The new communities are built to meet the desires of any type of homebuyer looking to live in the Kansas City area.
