

RockWallet Receives an Alabama Money Transmitter License

RockWallet's continuing progress in obtaining money transmitter licenses is helping it empower more US citizens to buy, sell and manage digital assets.

WILMINGTON, DE, UNITED STATES,
September 10, 2024 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- RockWallet LLC, the maker of a self-custodial, multi-currency wallet that simplifies the process of buying, using, storing, and swapping digital assets securely and efficiently, today announced it has received an Alabama Money Transmitter License ("MTL").

The RockWallet app is a leading tool enabling the safe, secure and convenient management of digital assets.

RockWallet has made steady progress in securing numerous MTLs over the past several months as part of its ongoing commitment to bringing digital asset management to a broader audience across the United States.

Obtaining this license in Alabama allows us to offer our powerful and easy-to-use functionality to an ever-expanding customer base.”

-Steve Bailey, President & Chief Operating Officer

“At RockWallet, we believe everyone should have the opportunity to buy, sell, swap, and manage digital assets safely, securely, and with ease,” said Steve Bailey, President & Chief Operating Officer of RockWallet. “Obtaining this license in Alabama allows us to offer our powerful and easy-to-use functionality to an ever-expanding customer base, ensuring we remain the app of choice for anyone looking to take control of their digital asset journey.”

Since its inception, RockWallet has made regulatory compliance a cornerstone of its business strategy, meeting the highest standards in financial services while enhancing its user experience and expanding its feature set. This dedication to safety, security, and compliance has fueled its steady growth, allowing more users to benefit from secure and straightforward access to digital asset management.
