"Maria (En La Misión)" exemplifies the band's approach to blending traditional Italian melodies with contemporary Latin rhythms. The song draws inspiration from the vibrant cultural landscape of San Francisco's Mission District, embodying a unique fusion of Neapolitan and Latino musical traditions.

About the Song

The single is a narrative of cultural integration, reflecting the dynamic mix of communities in the Mission District. Giuseppe Pinto, Sonamó's founder, crafted the piece as an homage to both his Neapolitan roots and his experiences in San Francisco. Sung in Spanish and driven by a reggaeton beat, the track showcases the band's commitment to creating music that resonates across cultural boundaries.

Music Video

In conjunction with the single's release, Sonamó has produced a music video that captures the essence of the Mission District's diverse and colorful atmosphere. The video, filmed on location in the heart of San Francisco, illustrates the themes of love and cultural unity central to the song. An exclusive preview of the video is available to media professionals upon request.

Upcoming Performances

To celebrate the release, Sonamó will be performing "Maria (En La Misión)" at various venues across the Bay Area, starting with a special appearance at 111 Minna Gallery in San Francisco, CA, on Saturday, January 25th, 2025, as part of the Euro Night Party. Additional performance dates will be announced on the band's website.
