A tribute concert to 20th century composer Julia Perry featuring newly engraved and long forgotten gems by Perry and the women who inspired her.

The music of Julia Perry is performed in part with the kind cooperation of The Estate of Julia A. Perry.

the Berklee Institute of Jazz and Gender Justice Aja Burrell Wood.

This panel and Centennial celebration aim to use arts as a vehicle to foster cultural curiosity, draw modern-day inspiration from Perry's prolific career, build actionable awareness on issues faced by artists of various intersecting identities, and advance intersectional racial justice through music, art, and conversation. This highly collaborative series of events involves contributions from disability advocates, artists, musicians, and scholars to bring Perry's life and legacy to the forefront.

"We are honored to celebrate Julia Perry's legacy through this comprehensive event that not only highlights her musical genius but also addresses important social issues," said Ashleigh Gordon, Artistic Director of Castle of our Skins.

Tickets: This panel is free with pre-registration encouraged. RSVP at www.givebutter.com/perrypanel.
