We're excited to promote Sinus Health Awareness Month! Our goal is to empower people with expert advice and reliable information to reduce the burden of sinus conditions & enhance overall well-being.”

Brent Senior, MD | VP of Development and Strategic Initiatives of ARS

Sinus conditions are a significant health concern affecting millions of people worldwide. Conditions such as sinusitis, nasal polyps, and chronic rhinosinusitis can greatly impact quality of life, causing symptoms like nasal congestion, facial pain, headaches, and impaired sense of smell. Despite their prevalence, many people remain unaware of the effective treatments available to manage these conditions.

Healthcare providers have access to educational materials to enhance their understanding of sinus health and improve patient care at sinushealth.com. The ARS encourages medical professionals to participate in the events and utilize the resources available on sinushealth.com to stay updated on best practices in rhinology.
