EINPresswire.com/ -- New York Fashion Week launched with an exquisite fashion show experience Catwalk Furbaby. At which Merci Dupre Clothier by Dr. Christina Rahm presented her latest collection - a unique line that combines her expertise as a scientist with fashion. As a prolific fashion engineer, she has inspired stylish, cutting-edge clothing with textiles that provide protective technology from the environmental toxins in the world around us.

The unique line of 'Enviremware' will host patented, nano-biotech formulas infused into the fabric of the clothing by a 96-hour process, offering an unbeatable barrier against EMF radiation, heavy metals, viruses, bacteria, parasites, and fungus, while supporting non-exposure of radio frequency electromagnetic particles from 5G cellular transmission.

About Merci Dupre Clothiers:

Merci Dupre is the pinnacle of luxury environmental fashion and protection, specializing in enviremware apparel. Our unique line of clothing incorporates nanotech skin coatings on the clothing to create a barrier against hazardous toxins such as 5G technologies, EMF radiation,
