The fixed interest rate segment to maintain its leadership status throughout the forecast period

Based on interest rate, the fixed interest rate segment held the highest market share in 2022, accounting for nearly three-fourths of the global premium finance market revenue, and is projected to manifest the highest CAGR of 12.6% from 2023 to 2032. The growth of fixed interest rates in the premium finance market is being driven by the desire for stability and predictability.

The banks segment to maintain its leadership status throughout the forecast period

Based on provider, the banks segment held the highest market share in 2022, accounting for more than two-thirds of the global premium finance market revenue, and is estimated to maintain its leadership status throughout the forecast period. The growth of the banks segment is propelled by their financial strength and expertise. Banks have the financial resources to offer competitive loan terms, making it attractive for individuals & businesses to choose them as their financing source. However, the NBFCs segment is projected to manifest the highest CAGR of 14.9% from 2023 to 2032, owing to their flexibility and ability to cater to a wide range of borrowers. NBFCs often have more lenient lending criteria compared to traditional banks, making it easier for individuals & businesses to secure premium financing.

North America to maintain its dominance by 2032

Based on region, North America held the highest market share in terms of revenue in 2022, accounting for more than one-third of the global premium finance market revenue, and is estimated to maintain its leadership status throughout the forecast period, owing to rise in awareness of premium finance options and increase in the cost of insurance premiums. These factors have been significant drivers for the premium finance market growth in North America. However, Asia-Pacific is expected to witness the fastest CAGR of 14.7% from 2023 to 2032. This is attributed to rise in affluence and economic growth in many Asian countries that drive the demand for insurance. Furthermore, increase in awareness of financial solutions such as premium finance is contributing to the premium finance market growth in Asia-Pacific.
