

Alpine Supply Chain Solution Consultant, Natalie Landgraf, Named a 2024 Women in Supply Chain Award Winner

The award from Food Logistics and Supply & Demand Chain Executive honors female supply chain leaders who guide and inspire a new generation of leadership.

NAPLES, FL, UNITED STATES,
September 18, 2024 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- Alpine Supply Chain Solutions, a boutique consulting firm focused on maximizing supply chain investments, today announced Consultant, Natalie Landgraf, has been named a 2024 Women in Supply Chain award winner by Food Logistics and Supply & Demand Chain Executive magazines. The award honors female supply chain leaders and executives whose accomplishments, mentorship, and examples set a foundation for women at all levels of a company's supply chain network.

According to Marina Mayer, Editor-in-Chief of Food Logistics and Supply & Demand Chain Executive, "Every year, this award continues to amaze me. But this year especially, it's all about the quality of the submissions. These women are doing remarkable things for their communities, organizations and teams and are paving the way for future young female leaders to be a part of an industry that's making a difference."

This year, the award was broken down into four categories: Rising Stars, Trailblazers, DEI Pioneer, and Workforce Innovator. Landgraf, who is just 24 years old, was recognized as a Rising Star. During her time at Alpine, she has played a key role in an ERP and WMS rollout for a leading supplier of trailer parts and accessories. This project involved over 50 sites going live on Microsoft Dynamics 365 in 9 months and included training of 300+ employees. Landgraf has also supported the establishment of recruitment and training processes for young talent, focusing on transferring knowledge from experienced team members to new recruits.

Michael Wohlwend, Managing Principal at Alpine, emphasized Natalie's strong work ethic, Natalie's exceptional combination of skills and dedication to teamwork and enhancing the supply chain are what earned her this well-deserved recognition."

enthusiasm, and energy, which allow her to foster trust between management and associates as well as work well with other individuals, especially when it comes to training someone. "Her exceptional combination of skills and dedication to teamwork and enhancing the supply chain are what earned her this well-deserved recognition."

"Women are reshaping the landscape of supply chain management with their unparalleled contributions, igniting growth and fostering innovation across the industry. Their presence not only enriches the workforce but also brings a myriad of perspectives essential for tackling intricate challenges and refining global operations. The Women in Supply Chain award stands as a beacon, celebrating and amplifying their remarkable achievements," shares Sarah Barnes-Humphrey, founder of Let's Talk Supply Chain podcast and Blended Pledge, both sponsors of the Women in Supply Chain award.

Congratulations to all the nominees and winners. A full list of winners can be found here. Recipients will be honored at this year's Women in Supply Chain Forum, set to take place Nov. 12-13, 2024 in Atlanta. Go to www.WomenInSupplyChainForum.com to register and learn more.
