"We are thrilled to welcome Tim Stroud to the Helping a Hero leadership team," said Meredith Iler, Chairman Emeritus, Helping a Hero. "Tim's military service, entrepreneurial spirit, and dedication to veterans' causes including Helping a Hero have made him a tireless advocate for our nation's heroes. His leadership and passion will be instrumental as we continue to grow our impact and serve more wounded veterans across the country."

I am honored to take on this full-time role to spearhead strategic partnerships, support our veterans and further the mission of Helping a Hero."

Tim Stroud

A former combat medic in the U.S. Army, Stroud served in Kosovo, Kuwait, and Iraq during Operation Iraqi Freedom. After completing his service, Stroud transitioned into civilian life, where he leveraged his military experience to launch multiple successful businesses, all centered on empowering veterans. His initiatives, such as the creation of the Army Wall of Fame at Ft. Hood and the establishment of TexVet for the State of Texas, demonstrate his lifelong commitment to supporting those who have served.

Stroud is no stranger to Helping a Hero, having been an active supporter and participant in numerous Helping a Hero programs and events over the years. He has attended dozens of home groundbreaking and welcome home ceremonies, and his involvement in the community builds bridges between veterans, supporters, and local leaders.

"Tim brings a wealth of experience and a personal connection to the mission," added Iler. "With his leadership, we are well-positioned to serve our wounded warriors through awarding more homes to deserving veterans and supporting them as they continue to rebuild their lives."

The importance of these specially adapted homes cannot be overstated. Simple adaptations including roll in showers, wider doors and flush thresholds enable our heroes to restore their independence inside their homes. "For our veterans, the path to recovery doesn't end when they come home—it begins," said Stroud. "Helping a Hero homes are designed to meet the unique needs of each individual, offering a supportive and empowering environment where veterans can rebuild their lives."
