

Newvon Named Finalist in 2024 McKnight's Excellence in Technology Awards for Training and Education Solutions

Recognition Highlights Newvon's Innovation in Caregiver Training and Education

NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES, September 24, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Newvon, a global leader in healthcare education technology, is excited to announce that it has been named a finalist in the prestigious 2024 McKnight's Excellence in Technology Awards in the "Training and Education Solutions" category. This recognition underscores Newvon's commitment to revolutionizing caregiver education with its advanced e-training platform, designed to simplify and enhance mandatory annual education for caregivers.

"We are honored to be recognized as a finalist in this year's McKnight's Tech Awards," said James Cohen, CEO and Co-Founder of Newvon. "This nomination validates our continuous efforts to innovate in the caregiver education space. Our Learning Management System is not only user-friendly but also comprehensive, ensuring caregivers are equipped with the knowledge and skills they need to provide the best possible care."

"We're thrilled to recognize these deserving finalists," said McKnight's Editorial Director John O'Connor. "They are showing innovative ways technology can be harnessed to improve care and operations in this field."

Newvon's Learning Management System (LMS) is built for caregivers, with a robust library of hundreds of training modules that cover a wide range of topics from caregiving basics to state-specific compliance training. Featuring micro-lessons with videos, animations, gamification, and quizzes, Newvon ensures that its content is engaging and accessible to all caregivers. As a result, Newvon has significantly contributed to workforce development and retention in the homecare sector, achieving over 10 million learner interactions and more than 6 million lesson completions in 2023.
