May Lor Xiong's story is a lesson that there is hope even in the worst times and that hardships can make anyone smarter and kinder in the long run.

About The Author

May Lor Xiong's journey is a testament to resilience and the pursuit of the American dream. Born in a refugee camp in Thailand to parents who fled communism in Laos after the Vietnam War, May's early years were marked by hardship and uncertainty. However, her family's determination led them to immigrate to the United States when May was just eight years old. Despite the challenges she faced, May pursued education with vigor, ultimately earning a Master's degree in Educational Leadership from Concordia University. For two decades, she dedicated herself to teaching English to immigrant students in the St. Paul Public School District, helping them navigate the path to their own American dreams. Beyond her career in education,

May is a multifaceted individual. She is a licensed real estate broker and life insurance agent, leveraging her skills to further support her community.
