Les Brown is a world-renowned motivational speaker, author, and former politician. He has inspired millions with his powerful messages of hope and determination, empowering people to rise above their circumstances and achieve greatness. Brown's dynamic speaking style and profound wisdom continue to make a significant impact globally.

Justin Day, the founder of Day by Day Digital, hails from Dallas, Texas, a bustling business hub that has shaped his entrepreneurial journey.

Beginning his career as a project manager at his mother's agency, Rocket Red, he was inspired to establish his own company, driven by a fierce entrepreneurial spirit.

Over five years at Rocket Red, he self-taught various skills such as web design & development, SEO, content marketing, videography, and email marketing, taking advantage of the dynamic environment to broaden his expertise.

It was this diverse experience that laid the foundation for his independent agency.

One of the standout innovations is his proprietary "Swarm System". It brings together a decade of strategic marketing experience with AI and automated workflows.

This system 'swarms' a client's audience with a perfect storm of content, priming qualified leads and directing them into a sales funnel, ready for purchasing.

Beyond his professional endeavors, he leads a fulfilling personal life.

With his fiancée, and their golden retriever, Ragnar, he loves traveling the world creating content that immortalizes their memories.

An avowed tech-nerd, he spends his leisure time playing video games, listening to audiobooks, and exploring the latest tech products.

Also active in his social life, he relishes playing pickleball and board games with friends during weekends.

His journey, on both a personal and professional level, is a testimony to his perseverance, curiosity, and love for learning.

The founder of Day by Day Digital stands as an example of how anyone can combine passion and expertise, transforming challenges into opportunities for growth and innovation.
