EINPresswire.com/ -- Club Room, a classic cocktail bar located at 310 W Broadway, New York, NY has collaborated with Chef Ken Addington and Mixologist Jeremy Oertel to create a unique and interactive dining experience combining imaginative cuisine and stunning cocktail presentations.

Step through the velvet curtain into Soho Grand's gilded hideaway, The Club Room. The show is about to begin.

This plush venue transports you from old-school New York to a daring new age.”

Vogue 100

Surrounded by Terry O'Neill's oversized portraits, this decadent two-room experience ushers old New York into a bold new era. Mixing uptown elegance with downtown edge.

Each drink is meticulously prepared, from the 19th-century old-fashioned, to a modernized espresso martini. You may even find that your libation changes colors, sparkles, or has a flaming garnish. For a truly theatrical experience, try the Club Room Martini, dramatically presented in a bottle encased in ice and poured tableside.

Complementing our cocktail program is a supper club-inspired dinner menu. Our chef invites you to savor decadent bites designed for sharing, from steak tartare gougères with black trumpet dressing to fingerling potatoes filled with caviar, crème fraîche, and chives.

Our clientele comes as much for the tableside theatrics as the after-dinner dancing. Every night, a vibrant array of talent takes the stage. Musical stylings ranging from avant-garde pianists to eclectic jazz pair beautifully with our classic menu and impeccable service.

The Bar Room juxtaposes Art Deco-era, hand-painted peacock walls with monochrome glimpses of 1970s New York in all its smoky glitz. The Parlor Room features a main stage with a disco ball and 18-foot mirrored ceilings. As night falls, dusk turns to disco. Tunes and tailfeathers come out as Manhattan's most coveted DJs spin for the city's most stylish denizens.
