“The work we do at Rodriguez & Associates is important and necessary, not just for our clients but our community as a whole. We help people overcome tragedy and loss by holding the wrongdoers accountable. I'm proud to be a part of a team that has had so much success pursuing that remarkable mission.”

Blaine first met Daniel Rodriguez as a student at Arvin High School when the fellow Arvin Bear came back to speak at their alma mater. This encounter helped spark Blaine's interest in the law as a profession. He went on to receive his bachelor's degree in Political Science from the University of California, Berkeley, followed by his J.D. from the University of California Davis School of Law, often working multiple jobs to afford tuition.

“Blaine grew up in a small town where the easiest, most well-trodden paths don't lead to law degrees. Instead, he made up his mind to get into the best colleges and universities, which he did. He had to choose whether to settle down in the big urban areas or return to the rural area where he was raised. Fortunately for us, he chose to bring his talent and work ethic back to our community," shared Daniel Rodriguez, founder and president of Rodriguez & Associates.

From his first days as a summer law clerk with Rodriguez & Associates, Blaine exhibited the grit and dedication to community that remains the core of the firm's values. Since coming back as an attorney fresh out of law school in 2019, he has developed a record of accomplishments, including obtaining a $5,942,524 arbitration verdict after the insurance company's top offer was only $280,000.
