Total Compliance Tracking Aims to Make Compliance Management Suck Less at PCI Europe Community Meeting

The compliance management software company brings a fresh perspective to the annual conference

ROCHESTER, MI, UNITED STATES, September 30, 2024 / EINPresswire.com/ -- Total Compliance Tracking (TCT) says that its mission is to make compliance management suck less. Founder Adam Goslin is bringing that mission to the annual PCI SSC Europe Community Meeting in Barcelona, Spain.

The 2024 Europe Community Meeting is an annual three-day event for professionals in the payments industry. Running 8-10 October, the conference will bring together payment card security experts, Assessors, Merchants, ISOs and other interested parties from all over the world to discuss everything from e-commerce to preventing data breaches.

This is TCT's second appearance at the Europe Annual Meeting. The compliance organisation and its founder have a long history of PCI expertise that pre-dates its founding in 2013. TCT began hosting an instance of their TCT Portal in the European Union in 2022 and anticipates continued expansion in the European market.

"We're tremendously excited to be at the PCI conference in person again, to regroup with folks we know in the PCI world, and to meet new people who are striving to manage compliance effectively," TCT Founder Adam Goslin said. "Managing compliance sucks, and TCT was born from our own frustrating experience of trying to manage compliance. It's our mission to make managing compliance suck less."

Goslin said that TCT intends to do more than push a product at the conference. While the compliance management company will have a booth on the exhibit floor, TCT will also provide several opportunities for attendees to gain more value from the conference.

TCT was selected to lead one of the Tech Exchange Demonstrations. These sessions are walkthroughs of innovative technologies related to PCI compliance and cybersecurity. Tech demos are 20-minute sessions that include Q&A, live technology demos, and thought leadership on trending issues related to PCI DSS.

This year, TCT's tech demo topic is titled, "Save Your Sanity By Not Letting Your Compliance Manage You." Of the talk, Goslin said to "expect a fun and informative session where we connect the dots for real relief of the pain points experienced by those in the compliance space."

A handful of organizations are selected by the PCI Council to present a tech demo, and this will be TCT's second year in a row to be selected at the Europe conference.

Visitors to the TCT vendor booth will also find a wealth of information about TCT's compliance management platform, TCT Portal. "TCT Portal helps organisations and Assessors take control of their compliance engagements, in even the most complex compliance environments," Goslin said. "It's a holistic platform that dramatically eases the pain of the most tedious and inefficient tasks in a way that no other platform does, streamlining the entire engagement."

Besides face-to-face conversations, TCT will offer demos of the product and a library of resources to help equip compliance professionals in their roles. "We believe the value of a conference goes far beyond the informational sessions," Goslin said. "There's no substitute for the conversations that occur during these events, whether it's networking, talking one-on-one with vendors, or discovering new solutions to age-old problems."

The 2024 Europe Community Meeting is operated by the PCI Security Standards Council (PCI SSC), a global forum that brings together payment industry stakeholders to develop and drive adoption of Data Security Standards and resources for safe payments worldwide.
