The company, which has been serving West Virginia and Ohio for over two decades, combines traditional Amish craftsmanship with modern building techniques. They guarantee that each building is designed for long lasting durability and maintain the quality associated with Amish construction.

Sturdi-Bilt's product lineup is now available for viewing, inquiries, and purchasing on ShedHub. This collaboration offers customers a more convenient way to explore their options and compare prices and design.

In 2015, Alan Fluharty, then a small furniture business owner, met the original owner of Sturdi-Bilt, Milo Byer. The Amish craftsmanship that was delivered to him then, defines the company today. After purchasing Sturdi-Bilt in 2020, Alan has worked alongside the experienced Amish craftsmen, the salespeople in each location, and the Shed Shuttle delivery drivers, to maintain the company's commitment to quality. Sturdi-Bilt has locations in West Virginia including Fairmont, Bridgeport, Westover, Eleanor, Ellenboro, Shinnston, and Mt. Hope. They also have two locations in Ohio, which are in Gallipolis and Centerville.
