Pathmaker Plumbing Utilizes Advanced Techniques to Ensure Long-Term Solutions for Clogged Toilets

Pathmaker Plumbing, your trusted Charlotte plumber is setting a new standard in dealing with clogged toilets by utilizing thorough techniques that go beyond traditional quick fixes. The local plumbing company emphasizes the importance of ensuring the root cause of a clog is fully addressed to prevent future issues, a step often overlooked by standard service providers.

Many plumbing companies or handymen rely on using a basic closet auger to clear clogs. While this method can momentarily relieve the issue by allowing water to pass through, it often leaves blockages in the final bends of a toilet's plumbing system. On the other hand, Pathmaker Plumbing takes a more meticulous approach. After clearing the clog, the plumbers at Pathmaker Plumbing always go the extra mile by pulling the toilet up afterward. This extra step ensures that nothing is left behind in the pipes.

A toilet has up to seven 90-degree bends from the bowl to the drain. The last bend is notorious for catching objects that cause clogs. Without removing the toilet and thoroughly checking this section of the toilet leading to the drain, obstructions can remain, which leads to repeated clogging.

Pathmaker Plumbing recently responded to a local customer struggling with a persistently clogged toilet, despite attempts to clear it themselves. However, the team's commitment to thoroughness led them to pull the toilet to inspect the final bends of a toilet's plumbing system. Inside this section, they discovered a bar of soap lodged in the final bend—a problem that standard auguring techniques would not have detected.

Removing the soap and resetting the toilet with a new wax seal helped make sure the customer would not face recurring problems.

Pathmaker Plumbing proudly provides high-quality, customer-focused plumbing services in Charlotte that go the extra mile every time. By using compressive techniques, the company helps homeowners rely on long-lasting results, avoiding the frustration and inconvenience of repeated clogs in their toilet systems.
