ALL THE THINGS I SAID

JOANNE SHAW TAYLOR

"This is the first song I wrote for the new album," Joanne shares. "It's about reflecting on a past relationship and accepting your part in its failure as well as asking your ex-partner to do the same. It's also about how you can reflect on a love relationship and with the benefit of time you can see how you could have done things differently."

With its candid lyrics and dynamic delivery, "All The Things I Said" is a powerful testament to Joanne's ability to translate deeply personal experiences into universally relatable stories. The song also sees Joanne expanding her songwriting prowess, channeling influences reminiscent of John Mayer while seamlessly blending them with pop sensibilities for a fresh, contemporary sound. This track follows the recent release of, "Black & Gold," a soulful, blues-gospel rendition of Sam Sparro's 2008 Grammy-nominated hit. Produced by Kevin Shirley (Black Crowes, Aerosmith), Joanne's powerful vocals and emotive interpretation transformed "Black & Gold" into a compelling, classic-sounding track that balances modern sensibilities with an almost retro feel.

With praise from legends like Stevie Wonder and Annie Lennox and a career that has spanned over a decade, Joanne Shaw Taylor continues to solidify her status as one of today's most prominent voices in blues rock. Her next studio album is set to be released early next year. It promises to deliver more of the fearless songwriting and stirring performances that have earned her critical acclaim and a devoted fan base worldwide.

Joanne is gearing up for a busy fall as she prepares to hit the road for an extensive U.S. tour, bringing her dynamic live performances to audiences across the country. The "Heavy Soul" U.S. Tour will kick off in Carmel, IN on October 23rd and will see Joanne making stops in major cities including Kansas City, Seattle, Austin, and many more, before wrapping up in Baton Rouge on November 24th.
