Online recruitment (also known as E-recruitment or internet recruiting) allows businesses to use various internet-based solutions – for example, online advertising, job listings, social media and company websites to source and hire the best candidates. These software solutions are commonly used by human resources professionals, recruiters, and hiring managers to manage job postings, track applicants, collaborate with team members, and make data-driven hiring decisions. Online recruitment software can vary widely in terms of features, complexity, and pricing. Small businesses may use simpler solutions, while larger enterprises may opt for more comprehensive, customizable systems to meet their specific needs. The goal of these systems is to make the recruitment process more efficient, reduce administrative tasks, and help organizations find and hire the best talent for their positions.

Online recruitment software will helps organizations to save time and money. The hiring procedure is time-consuming and labor-intensive. Paperwork consumes time and costs money. An automated approach saves a lot of time and effort over long hours of paperwork. The money that would have been spent on hiring someone to handle the documentation is also saved.
