The updated courses will cover essential topics in both Property Casualty and Life and Health insurance, ensuring that students have the most relevant and timely information required for their professional growth.

The updated Life and Health classes will include a comprehensive review of recent National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC) changes that pertain to licensed Life Insurance professionals.

Meanwhile, the Property Casualty course will focus on critical new laws and regulations affecting P&C agents, including the Florida law Senate Bill 4-D, also known as the Building Safety Law, which mandates that all condo and co-op buildings over 30 years old and three stories and higher undergo structural inspections every ten years.

“While this law may initially seem to impact real estate licensees, it is imperative for all Property & Casualty agents to take this class,” Kazor emphasized. “Our experienced instructors will illustrate the insurance implications arising from condominium policies, as well as Directors and Officers (D&O) liability and general liability for commercial property insurance involving condominiums.”

In addition to the new courses, Kazor proudly announced the rollout of the school’s cutting-edge AI management system, which will revolutionize how prospective students interact with the Insurance School of TampaBay. The ISO TampaBay Assistant, accessible 24/7 at 813.592.1134, will serve as a virtual resource for inquiries regarding class registrations and course material.

“Our AI assistant allows prospective students to interact just as they would with me, providing immediate assistance and links to register for our classes,” Kazor stated. “Whether on the phone or via our online chat, students will receive guidance on how to get licensed in Florida and the registration process for any of our courses. We encourage everyone to reach out and experience the benefits of our AI assistant.”
