The Finalists:

DuPont Life Protection

Innovation: Kevlar® EXO™

Kevlar® EXO™ is a revolutionary lightweight aramid fiber technology that reduces body armor weight by up to 30%, enhancing both flexibility and comfort for the wearer without compromising protection.

Teijin Aramid

Innovation: Circular Twaron® Initiative

This initiative combines sustainability with high performance, using recycled materials to create the renowned Twaron® fibers while maintaining their exceptional strength and durability.

MKU Limited

Innovation: KAVRO DOMA 360 Helmet

A cutting-edge ballistic helmet that offers superior protection against high-caliber threats, including AK-47 rounds, while ensuring wearer comfort with a Back Face Signature (BFS) of less than 20mm.

Avient Corporation

Innovation: Dyneema® SB301

Dyneema® SB301 sets a new standard for sustainable body armor with its bio-based ultra-high-molecular-weight polyethylene (UHMWPE) fiber, offering superior ballistic protection while significantly reducing its carbon footprint.

How the Final Voting Works:

Public voting opens on Monday, October 7, 2024, and will remain open for fourteen days. Voters can cast their ballots for their favorite innovation, with the final results combining public votes and expert panel scores. The public vote will be weighted as follows:

1st place: 20 points

2nd place: 10 points

3rd place: 5 points

An expert panel consisting of industry veterans Jake G., Michael Bundy, and J. Luiten will also contribute their scores:

Favorite finalist: 10 points

Runner-up: 5 points

In the event of a tie, the winner of the public vote will take home the Body Armor Innovation Award 2024.

Voting Information:

Voting is open to the public on LinkedIn, and individuals can cast their vote by visiting the official poll on the BodyArmorNews LinkedIn page.
