a leading dog training company, celebrates its founder Ryan

Matthews' 22-year journey in canine education. From military working dogs to celebrity pets, Matthews has helped over 5,000 dogs and their owners achieve off-leash obedience and stronger bonds.

Matthews, a former Army combat canine handler, began his career in 2002 training elite Military Working Dogs (MWDs). His experience includes bite protection training, bomb threat sweeps, and secret service missions. During his combat deployment to Iraq with his MWD Zito, Matthews worked alongside Special Forces and Infantry units, honing his skills in high-pressure environments.

"Our mission at World of Dog Training is to make good dogs great," says Matthews, founder, CEO, and spokesperson of World of Dog Training. "We're committed to helping dog owners understand canine language and psychology, leading to more fulfilling relationships with their pets. We call it "cracking-the-canine code".

World of Dog Training offers a unique approach to canine education:

2. Every client receives a customized training plan
3. A library of over 200 videos and growing

4. Dog training books authored by Ryan Matthews
5. Most dogs achieve off-leash obedience within 3-4 lessons

World of Dog Training goes beyond basic obedience, focusing on:

The company's success is reflected in client testimonials. Tracy Amundson, owner of a Belgian Malinois puppy, shares, "Ryan Matthews has been helping us train our Belgian Malinois puppy since May. His experience and knowledge has been key to our success in raising our dog. We will continue training with him for the lifetime of our dog and I would recommend him to any pet owner with any type of dog or puppy of any breed."

Another satisfied client, Callie Vitalo, adds, "Ryan was amazing! He provided personalized and effective training for my puppy with behavioral issues, and helped me understand my role as a first time puppy owner. I saw results within just a few minutes of working with him! Super helpful and knowledgeable. I will definitely continue to work with Ryan."

World of Dog Training's innovative methods have garnered attention from celebrities and influencers, with Matthews traveling globally to provide his expertise. The company's expansion into online courses has made professional dog training more accessible to pet owners worldwide.
