

Revian® Welcomes Renowned Dermatologist Dr. Amy McMichael to Advisory Board

MORRISVILLE, NC, UNITED STATES, October 8, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Revian®, the #1 physician recommended hair restoration cap and a leading provider of innovative hair restoration solutions, is pleased to announce the addition of Dr. Amy J. McMichael to its esteemed Advisory Board. As a renowned dermatologist and researcher, Dr. McMichael will serve as a key opinion leader for the company, providing invaluable insights and expertise.

Dr. McMichael's extensive knowledge and experience in dermatology and hair loss will be instrumental in our efforts to develop innovative and effective hair restoration solutions"

John Oakley, CEO, Revian

Dr. McMichael brings a wealth of experience to Revian, having held leadership positions at Wake Forest University School of Medicine for over two decades. Her clinical and research interests align closely with Revian's mission, particularly in the area of hair restoration and scalp disorders. She has conducted groundbreaking research on Revian's technology, including its efficacy in treating Central Centrifugal Cicatricial Alopecia (CCCA).

Revian has been fortunate to have Dr. McMichael's support for many years. Her involvement in two clinical trials evaluating the effectiveness of Revian's solutions for CCCA has yielded promising results, with earlier findings published in the Journal of Investigative Dermatology and the most recent findings, which will be presented at the Southeastern Consortium for Dermatology in October.

"We are honored to have Dr. McMichael join our Advisory Board," said John Oakley, CEO at Revian. "Her extensive knowledge and experience in dermatology and hair loss will be instrumental in our efforts to develop innovative and effective hair restoration solutions."

Dr. McMichael's appointment confirms Revian's commitment to leadership in the science of hair loss solutions. Her involvement will further help raise awareness of the company's products and services, as well as strengthen its partnerships with healthcare professionals.
