At OIBortho, care goes beyond treating injuries—it's about understanding each patient's unique needs and goals. The multidisciplinary team includes board-certified orthopaedic surgeons, joint replacement specialists, pain management experts, and sports medicine specialists, providing comprehensive, tailored care.

OIBortho offers a full range of treatment options for conditions such as sports injuries, chronic pain, and the need for joint replacements. Their services span from non-invasive treatments like physical therapy to advanced surgical techniques. With state-of-the-art diagnostic tools, they ensure precise identification of underlying issues for more effective treatment.

OIBortho's mission is to create a center of orthopaedic excellence in Central and South New Jersey by blending innovative technology with unparalleled expertise and a patient-first philosophy. The team prioritizes listening to patients, understanding their concerns, and actively involving them in care decisions.

"Here at OIBortho, our patients have and always will come first. We started as two local community orthopaedic practices, both with the same patient-centered ideals, independently growing and then coming together to become Orthopaedic Institute Brielle Orthopaedics. Opportunities like this thrive when like-minded physicians band together with the sole intention of providing excellent patient care. However, we didn't stop there. As a division of OrthoNJ, over 120 orthopaedic surgeons have bonded to create the largest independent orthopaedic group in New Jersey. The power to put patients first," says CEO, Trevor M. Prashad.

Whether it's joint replacement or pain management, OIBortho is committed to delivering the best outcomes, helping patients return to their favorite activities.
