LOS ANGELES, CA, UNITED STATES, October 9, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Australia's entertainment brother powerhouse (no, it's not the Hemsworths!) Sebastian and Luka Sero, have been offered exciting film and TV projects filming in the United States.

Luka and Sebastian will star in a highly anticipated science-fiction feature film from Guarina Pictures, after which they will star in a comedy series ('Family Time') infusing family dynamics with a lightning fast script and comic timing. The former project involves some other exciting international talent, including a starring cast member from Amazon's acclaimed series 'Class of '07,' and will be helmed by an award-winning filmmaker who recently worked with honorary Oscar-winner Tyler Perry. 'Family Time' will take advantage of Oklahoma's filming tax credit, and both projects also benefit from the real-life brothers playing brothers on screen.

The brother's representative offered a statement: "We are so thrilled for the future of both of these boys' careers - it goes without saying they are each one-of-a-kind, but much stronger together - so it makes complete sense that they continue to work together overseas."

The Sero brothers Luka and Sebastian, both not yet teenagers, have been acting professionally across stage and screen for more than a decade between them. In that time, the multi-talented duo have accrued a long-list of credits through catching the eyes of some impressive film luminaries. Only ten years old, Luka is credited alongside two-time-Oscar winner and Australian acting legend Cate Blanchett (he starred in the acclaimed Sundance drama feature Shayda

Luka's older brother Sebastian, meanwhile, finished shooting ACTA award winning television series "The Clearing", co-starring Miranda Otto and Guy Pierce, going on to work with celebrated Australian 'The Greatest Showman' filmmaker Michael Gracey on the upcoming feature film 'Better Man' about legendary singer-songwriter Robbie Williams. That film recently debuted to rave reviews at the esteemed Toronto International Film Festival - an achievement shared by the film's cast that would be the envy of any other Australian actor.
