

KLIK & Douglas Stewart Bring HUB Classroom Media Management Solution to UK Educators at ICT Manchester

KLIK brings their ground-breaking EdTech product family to the UK in cooperation with Douglas Stewart EDU at ICT for Education Conference in Manchester.

RENTON, WA, UNITED STATES, October 11, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- UK educators are constantly balancing the demands of teaching and managing new classroom technologies. Fortunately, KLIK, in collaboration with Douglas Stewart EDU, has introduced a game-changing solution to assist them: the KLIKboks HUB, which made its official UK debut at the ICT for Education Conference in Salford, Manchester.

Georgina Taylor, KLIK product manager for UK, at ICT for Education 2024 in Manchester UK.

Spearheading KLIK's introduction to the UK EdTech community, Georgina Taylor, KLIK Product Manager for Douglas Stewart EDU, captivated attendees with a keynote presentation outlining KLIK's powerful Classroom Media Management capabilities. She also held one-on-one consultations, demonstrating the KLIKboks HUB and providing educational resources to showcase how KLIK helps educators create more engaging, immersive, and memorable classroom experiences.

Until KLIK, teachers have relied on fragmented solutions to manage it all. With KLIK, they can seamlessly deliver their curriculum in ways that truly connect with students.”

“Classroom Media Management might sound intimidating, but in reality, it's what educators do every day,” said Costa Lakoumentas, Founder of KLIK. “Until KLIK, teachers have relied on fragmented solutions to manage it all. With KLIK, they can seamlessly deliver their curriculum in ways that truly connect with students.”

The response from attendees at ICT Manchester has been overwhelmingly positive, with educators, technologists, and systems integrators praising KLIK's innovation. Many have already scheduled follow-up sessions to explore KLIK's offerings in more detail, eager to bring this solution into their classrooms.
