

Metric5 CEO has just been recognized as being among OrangeSlices' National Security Honorees

WASHINGTON, DC, UNITED STATES, October 15, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ --

As we enter a pivotal year for the federal landscape, we are thrilled to announce that Metric5 CEO, Abu Malik, has been included in the 2025 Engage National Security 100 Honorees.

Assembled by OrangeSlices AI, this exclusive list includes leaders in IT and consulting, from both industry and government, who are set to spearhead innovation. With a new Administration on the horizon, this esteemed group of technology and business consulting professionals is ready to propel the critical missions of National Security agencies forward. The nomination process was incredibly competitive, with hundreds of entries evaluated. Each honoree was nominated and selected by their peers, celebrating their outstanding contributions to the field.

Across the Federal sector, there is constant talk of breaking down silos, promoting transparency, and fostering collaboration. But these leaders aren't just talking the talk; they are living it. They are setting a powerful example of what it means to lead with purpose, inspiring their teams and peers to do the same. Their selfless commitment to improving how government and industry collaborate is reshaping the way we work together—not for personal gain, but for the betterment of the entire industry. "It is humbling to be included with so many transformational leaders who make such an impactful difference in the lives of employees and customers everyday” said Malik, “That’s what we strive to do at Metric5 and inclusion on this list validates our focus is right where it should be.”

Metric5 is proud to be honored by OrangeSlices AI, who notes that, “As we continue our mission to highlight leaders #doingitright, we are thrilled to celebrate these innovators who embrace bold strategies and forward-thinking approaches. They are driving a culture shift that prioritizes open communication, transparency, and collaboration within and between the Federal government and its industry partners, particularly across the National Security sector, including DHS, State and related agencies. The 2025 honorees stand out not only for their leadership but for their commitment to creating a more collaborative future, ultimately delivering real, measurable impact for U.S. citizens, business leaders, educators, seniors, caregivers, families, and children.”
