The company will donate $10 for every visitor to their booth during the upcoming CCW Nashville Conference, with all proceeds benefiting the American Red Cross.

Hurricanes Helene and Milton caused extensive damage in multiple regions, leaving many communities in need of support for rescue and recovery efforts. OP360's initiative aims to contribute to the ongoing relief and rebuilding process in these hard-hit areas.

At OP360, we believe in the power of community and the importance of lending a helping hand during times of crisis. Our hearts go out to those affected by Hurricanes Helene and Milton.”

Tim Boylan, CEO and Founder

“At OP360, we believe in the power of community and the importance of lending a helping hand during times of crisis,” said Tim Boylan, Founder and CEO of OP360. “Our hearts go out to those affected by Hurricanes Helene and Milton, and we are committed to supporting the recovery efforts. By tying our donation to conference attendance, we hope to not only raise funds but also increase awareness about the ongoing needs of the affected communities.”

The CCW Nashville Conference, a premier event in the customer contact industry, provides an ideal platform for OP360 to engage with industry professionals while making a positive impact. Attendees are encouraged to visit the OP360 booth to learn more about the company's services and contribute to this important cause simply through their presence.

All funds raised through this initiative will be donated to the American Red Cross, an organization at the forefront of disaster relief and community support in the affected regions.
