provider of data-driven contract management solutions. The strategic acquisition expands LegalSifter’s client base, recurring revenues, and product capabilities while offering clients broader access to additional AI and contract operations solutions.

By merging Contract Logix’s 18 years of contract lifecycle management (CLM) expertise with LegalSifter’s AI-driven technology, legal expertise, and contract operations services, LegalSifter will accelerate innovation and growth to help companies contract wisely and eliminate the pains associated with managing contracts.

“Our companies share a common vision, values, and commitment to client success and innovation,” said Kevin Miller, CEO of LegalSifter. “We see this as a natural fit and a great opportunity to expand our client base and deliver the additional services and solutions that their clients have been requesting,” he added.

“We are excited to bring expanded artificial intelligence capabilities, expertise, and services to our customers with LegalSifter’s Contract Control Program,” said Contract Logix CEO Karen Meyer.

Bringing the companies together increases LegalSifter’s strong position in the healthcare, education, technology, and manufacturing industries while expanding its client base in pharmaceuticals, energy, biotech, and supply chain. The integration is underway to ensure a seamless continuation of new product development and client success, as well as a unified team and product roadmap that builds on the strengths of both companies.

Brentwood Capital served as the exclusive financial advisor to Contract Logix in the transaction.
